

CASA PALOELU

Nestled within a thriving permaculture community, this unique property offers a sustainable lifestyle with two main houses, one of which is still under construction, and two casitas, also still under construction. The completed main house is a blend of eco-friendly design and modern comforts, featuring an open-plan living area, a kitchen equipped with energy-efficient appliances, and large windows that flood the space with natural light. Equipped with both solar panels and a wind turbine, the home generates its own electricity, which makes it totally off-the-grid. Two charming casitas, offer the perfect setup for hosting friends and family or generating rental income. Ideal for those seeking a tranquil retreat in the heart of the countryside, these casitas also enjoy the convenience of being...
